

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

BOOK REVIEWS

IN CHARGE OF
GRACE H. CAMERON, R.N.

DIABETIC COOKERY, Recipes and Menus. By Rebecca W. Oppenheimer. E. P. Dutton and Company, New York, Publishers.

A small book of recipes collected and used by the author for the treatment of diabetes. One becomes acquainted with many hitherto unknown and unused foodstuffs in catering to the diabetic patient. In this little book not only are the recipes and menus so arranged that they are readily understood and followed, but the out-of-the-ordinary flours, extracts and sweetening substances are listed and address are given where they may be obtained. The caloric computation of each recipe is given in proportion of protein, fat and carbohydrate. It is therefore possible to reckon food values in the day's ration very closely.

A HANDBOOK FOR SCHOOL NURSES. By Helen W. Kelly, R.N., Superintendent of Field Nurses, Department of Health, Chicago, Ill., and Mabel C. Bradshaw, R.N., Superintendent of School Nurses, Board of Education, Milwaukee, Wis. The Macmillan Company, New York, Publishers. Price, $1.00.

Until about a year ago there was no book on the history of school nursing nor information on the subject of school nursing procedures. The first book published on this subject was by the pioneer school nurse, Lina Rogers Struthers. Now we have the present book, written by women of proved ability and efficiency in this division of public health nursing. The plans of organization and administration are offered under three agencies of control, the board of education, the department of health, and the visiting nurse organization or a women's club. The routine and character of the work are concisely discussed; the educational value of the school nurse is clearly shown; and the relations this organization may establish with other community activities are described. The importance of careful complete records is explained, and the book is excellent for all persons interested in school nursing.

MEDICAL WAR MANUAL No. 5. LESSONS FROM THE ENEMY. By John R. McDill, M.D., Major Medical Reserve Corps, U. S. A. Lea & Febiger, Philadelphia, Publishers. Price, $1.50.

Dr. McDill, assigned to service in Germany in 1916, obtained permission from the War Ministry to study and inspect their sanitary system and the care of the sick and wounded, for publication in the United States. The present manual is the result of that study.